CERTIFICATE OF INDEPENDENT BID DETERMINATION

1  This Standard Bidding Document (SBD) must form part of all bids¹ invited.

2  Section 4 (1) (b) (iii) of the Competition Act No. 89 of 1998, as amended, prohibits an agreement between, or concerted practice by, firms, or a decision by an association of firms, if it is between parties in a horizontal relationship and if it involves collusive bidding (or bid rigging).² Collusive bidding is a pe se prohibition meaning that it cannot be justified under any grounds.

3  Treasury Regulation 16A9 prescribes that accounting officers and accounting authorities must take all reasonable steps to prevent abuse of the supply chain management system and authorizes accounting officers and accounting authorities to:

a.   disregard the bid of any bidder if that bidder, or any of its directors have abused the institution’s supply chain management system and or committed fraud or any other improper conduct in relation to such system.

b.   cancel a contract awarded to a supplier of goods and services if the supplier committed any corrupt or fraudulent act during the bidding process or the execution of that contract.

4  This SBD serves as a certificate of declaration that would be used by institutions to ensure that, when bids are considered, reasonable steps are taken to prevent any form of bid-rigging.

5  In order to give effect to the above, the attached Certificate of Bid Determination (SBD 9) must be completed and submitted with the bid:

² Bid rigging (or collusive bidding) occurs when businesses, that would otherwise be expected to compete, secretly conspire to raise prices or lower the quality of goods and / or services for purchasers who wish to acquire goods and / or services through a bidding process.  Bid rigging is, therefore, an agreement between competitors not to compete.

1. PURPOSE

1.1. To appoint a service provider/s to undertake the development of an environmental sector job creation framework to coordinate and report on job creation initiatives in the environmental sector within a period of six (6) months for the Department of Environmental Affairs.

2. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

2.1. The high level of unemployment experienced in South Africa directly contributes to the high levels of poverty and inequitable distribution of income. In 2011 President Zuma stated that it is imperative that all government departments align programmes with job creation. In 2014, he re-iterated that job creation is still a priority. Statistics South Africa measured unemployment in the first quarter of 2014 at 25.2%. Unemployment for women is measured at 27%, while 23.7% of men are unemployed. However, a lack of tertiary education amongst many South Africans contributes significantly to the difficulty of getting employment. In the same first quarter of 2014, unemployment rate among graduates stood at 5.2% and that of persons with other tertiary qualifications such as diplomas or certificates was 12.6%, and those without matric was at 30.3%.

2.2. In South Africa, the unemployment rate of 15-24 year olds with primary education or less is 50%; for those with tertiary level education, the unemployment rate is 37%. The situation is different for those aged 25+; 20% of this group who have primary education are unemployed, while only 7% of those with tertiary level education are unemployed.

2.3. Education alone cannot eradicate poverty; rather, education coupled with greater job opportunities in the economy will be the roadmap out of poverty. South Africa recognises that the green economy contributes to the creation of jobs in the private sector, civil society as well as all spheres of government. According to the National Strategy for Sustainable Development (NSSD) and the Green Economy (DEA), the emphasis of job creation in the environment sector should be on natural resources and conservation management; sustainable waste management; water management; and cross cutting issues of greening, research, awareness, training, skills development and knowledge management.
2.4. A “green job” is defined by the United Nations Environment Program as ‘work in agricultural manufacturing, research and development, administrative and service activities that contribute substantially to preserving or restoring environmental quality. Specifically but not exclusively this includes jobs that help protect ecosystems and biodiversity, reduce energy materials and water consumption through high efficiency strategies, decarbonize the economy and minimize or altogether avoid generation of any forms of waste and pollution.

2.5. Currently job creation is predominantly achieved through the Expanded Public Works Programme (EPWP) which is a key government initiative, and contributes to Governments Policy Priorities in terms of decent work and sustainable livelihoods, education, health; rural development; food security and land reform and the fight against crime and corruption. EPWP subscribes to Outcome 4, which focuses on “Decent employment through inclusive economic growth.” In the programme, public bodies from all spheres of government (in terms of their allocated mandates and budgets) and the non-state sector (which are supported by government incentives) purposefully raise the creation of work opportunities for unemployed and poor people in South Africa through the delivery of public and community services. Training and enterprise development are implemented in sector-specific programmes to enhance service delivery and beneficiary well-being. The Programme provides an important avenue for labour absorption and income transfers to poor households in the short to medium-term. It is also a deliberate attempt by the public sector bodies to use expenditure on goods and services to create work opportunities for the unemployed.

2.6. EPWP Projects employ workers on a temporary or on-going basis under the Ministerial Conditions of Employment for the EPWP or learnership employment conditions. The EPWP creates work opportunities in four sectors, namely, Infrastructure, Non-State, Environment & Culture and Social, through:

- increasing the labour intensity of government-funded infrastructure projects under the Infrastructure sector,
- creating work opportunities through the Non-Profit Organisation Programme (NPO) and Community Work Programme (CWP) under the Non-State sector, creating work opportunities in public environment and culture programmes under the Environment and Culture sector and creating work opportunities in public social programmes under the Social sector.
2.7. The Environment and Culture Sector (E&C)’s contribution to the EPWP involves employing people to work on projects to improve their local environment through programme spearheaded by various departments. The sector builds South Africa’s natural and cultural heritage, and in doing so, dynamically uses this heritage to create both medium and long term work and social benefits. The objectives of the Sector are as follows:

- Creating jobs and providing training and through these jobs facilitating long-term employment;
- Linking the marginalized people with opportunities and resources to enable their participation in the developed “main stream economy”;
- Integrating sustainable rural development and urban renewal;
- Creating land-based livelihoods;
- Promoting community-based natural resource management;
- Developing the natural resources and cultural heritage;
- Rehabilitation of natural resources and protection of biodiversity; and
- Promoting tourism.

2.8. An environmental sector job creation framework is needed to advocate for job creation in the environmental sector; coordinate and effectively report on the initiatives of the public and private sector which have the same objectives of the EPWP Environment and Culture sector, but do not employ people under the Ministerial determination of Conditions of Employment for the EPWP.

3. OBJECTIVES

The objectives of the project include the

3.1 Conducting an analysis and proposing a framework with an implementation plan for job creation in the environmental sector with detail given to:
