CERTIFICATE OF INDEPENDENT BID DETERMINATION

1 This Standard Bidding Document (SBD) must form part of all bids¹ invited.

2 Section 4 (1) (b) (iii) of the Competition Act No. 89 of 1998, as amended, prohibits an agreement between, or concerted practice by, firms, or a decision by an association of firms, if it is between parties in a horizontal relationship and if it involves collusive bidding (or bid rigging).² Collusive bidding is a pe se prohibition meaning that it cannot be justified under any grounds.

3 Treasury Regulation 16A9 prescribes that accounting officers and accounting authorities must take all reasonable steps to prevent abuse of the supply chain management system and authorizes accounting officers and accounting authorities to:
   a. disregard the bid of any bidder if that bidder, or any of its directors have abused the institution’s supply chain management system and or committed fraud or any other improper conduct in relation to such system.
   b. cancel a contract awarded to a supplier of goods and services if the supplier committed any corrupt or fraudulent act during the bidding process or the execution of that contract.

4 This SBD serves as a certificate of declaration that would be used by institutions to ensure that, when bids are considered, reasonable steps are taken to prevent any form of bid-rigging.

5 In order to give effect to the above, the attached Certificate of Bid Determination (SBD 9) must be completed and submitted with the bid:

² Bid rigging (or collusive bidding) occurs when businesses, that would otherwise be expected to compete, secretly conspire to raise prices or lower the quality of goods and / or services for purchasers who wish to acquire goods and / or services through a bidding process. Bid rigging is, therefore, an agreement between competitors not to compete.

1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this document is to provide the terms of reference for a service provider to develop a feasibility report in relation to the establishment of a national training centre for the Environmental Management Inspectorate (EMI).

2. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

The national Department of Environmental Affairs (DEA) has, since late 2005, been in the process of developing, delivering and evaluating a capacity-building programme for those officials responsible for enforcing and monitoring compliance with specific pieces of national environmental legislation (NEMA and the SEMAs). The focus of this programme has been on developing the knowledge and skills of Environmental Management Inspectors (EMIs), designated in terms of sections 31B, BA and C of NEMA to execute inspection, enforcement and investigation activities in accordance with their mandate. This EMI training programme has been supplemented by an extended training/awareness-raising initiative for key stakeholders, including magistrates, prosecutors and more recently, other law enforcement authorities, such as South African Revenue Service/Customs, Road Traffic Management Corporation and the South African Police Service.

The development and implementation of the EMI training programme has, in the last 10 years, been a dynamic process, consistently being adapted to meet the changing needs of the environmental compliance and enforcement sector. Recent examples include the legislative developments requiring the designation of EMIs at local authority level, the Department of Water and Sanitation as well as the Department of Mineral Regulation. Due to the wide range of stakeholders (national, provincial and local) whose needs must be catered for in EMI training programme, the current framework has become multi-dimensional, with various courses being designed to suit differing needs.

Although the current EMI training programme is widely regarded as a well-organised and valuable service provided by DEA to other national, provincial and local organs of state, it has a number of challenges related to logistics, resources (human and financial), sustainability, repeatability and frequency. Realising the opportunity to address some of these challenges and improve the existing programme, the EMI Capacity Development and Support Directorate, in 2014, undertook a preliminary scoping exercise in which relevant officials from four other well-established training institutes (Ezemvelo KZN Wildlife Training Institute, the South African Wildlife College, the Roodeplaat Training Centre/ Water Affairs; and the South African Air Force Training Academy) were interviewed in an effort to obtain specific operational and institutional information in order to provide comparative models for the delivery of training to officials executing compliance and enforcement functions.

In order to further develop this preliminary scoping exercise into a comprehensive proposal that can be considered for implementation, DEA requires the services of an external service provider that will develop a comprehensive and in-depth feasibility study into the establishment of a national training centre as a possible mechanism to deliver more efficient and effective compliance and enforcement training to EMIs.

3. OBJECTIVES

The overall objective of this project is to develop a feasibility report in relation to the establishment of a national training centre for the Environmental Management Inspectorate (EMI).

4. SCOPE AND EXTENT OF WORK

In order to develop such a feasibility report, the service provider will first be required to develop an in-depth understanding of the current EMI training programme, including its historical development and current implementation. Thereafter, the service provider will be required at analyse and assess the training programme by undertaking a SWOT analysis that will identify the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats that are inherent in the existing framework. Once these aspects have been clearly identified and defined, the service provider must propose various models for an EMI training centre. The pros and cons of each of these models must be presented to senior management of DEA; and once the top 3 (three) most appropriate models have been agreed upon, the service
The provider must develop a comprehensive business case for each of the 3 (three) models, together with a comparative analysis that highlights the key similarities and differences between the various models. It is envisaged that each of these aspects will form a separate chapter of the feasibility study that must be drafted in a manner that serves as a basis for decision-making and implementation.

A detailed scope of work is set out in the table below:

• Research and understand the Constitutional and legal framework in which EMIs are trained and designated (national, provincial and local);
• Review the EMI Basic and Specialised Training Programme (including for related stakeholders, such as magistrates and prosecutors); | Status Quo Chapter |

- Consult with other relevant institutions involved in the delivery of training programmes for law enforcement officials through a centralised model, including:
  - South Africa Wildlife College;
  - SARS Training Academy;
  - Road Traffic Management Corporation.
- Explain how each of the options does/does not address the weaknesses and threats identified in the SWOT analysis;
- Develop a range of possible models for an EMI Training Centre that must include the following:
  - preliminary costing of the following components (for 50 people minimum): Accommodation; Catering; Training Venues and Facilities; Library/Information Resource Facility; and
